

2. samartha, Nom. P. samarthyati, &c., to desire battle.

Samarthyat, an, anti, at, Ved. desiring battle, intent on conflict.

Sam-ārāna, as, ā, am (perf. part. A.), having come together, flowing together.

Sam-irna, referred to sam-rī by Scholiast on Pāṇ. VII. 1, 102.

Sam-rīta, as, ā, am, come together, met; come into collision, clashing together.

Sam-rīti, is, f., Ved. coming together, meeting together, contact, (Sāy. = sangama); conflict, fighting.

समृच sam-riç [cf. sam-arc], cl. 6. P. -riçati, &c., to praise, extol, adore, honour, (sam-ārīce, he has been lauded; but according to Sāy. = samyak pūjītavān, he has well honoured, or sthāpītavān, he has established, Rīg-veda I. 160, 4.)

समृञ्ज sam-rūj, cl. 6. P. A. -rūjati, -te, &c., to strive together or unite together for any object (with loc.); to promote well or together, (Sāy. = samyak prasādakayati, Rīg-veda I. 6, 9.)

समृध् I. sam-rīdh, cl. 4. 5. P. -rīdhyati, -rīdhoti, &c., to succeed well, be very successful, prosper, flourish, increase or grow greatly: Pass. -rīdhyate, to be completely successful, be fulfilled or accomplished, succeed, prosper; to share in abundantly, be fully furnished with (with inst.): Caus. -ardhayaati, -yitum, to cause to succeed or prosper; to cause to be fulfilled; to cause to be abundantly furnished with.

Sam-ardhaka, as, ā, am, causing to prosper, &c., granting a blessing or boon.

Sam-riddha, as, ā, am, very prosperous, thriving, flourishing, happy, fortunate; full-grown, increased, grown, accelerated; fully furnished with, abundantly endowed with, rich in, rich, wealthy; completed, full, complete, entire. — Samriddhayaśas, ās, ās, as, rich in fame, renowned, famous. — Samriddha-vega, as, ā, am, increasing in speed, excessively swift. — Samriddhārtha (‘dha-ara’), as, ā, am, having increased substance or wealth, increasing in resources. — Samriddhi-kṛi, cl. 8. P. -karioti, &c., to make prosperous or wealthy.

Sam-riddhi, is, f. great prosperity or success, exuberance, profusion; thriving, increase, gain, happiness, good fortune, well-being, wealth; power, supremacy, sway. — Samriddhi-samaya, as, m. a season of great prosperity.

Sam-riddhin, ī, inī, ī, prosperous, happy, blessed; possessing abundance of (at the end of a comp.).

2. sam-rīdh, t, t, t, Ved. very prosperous, (Sāy. = sam-riddha, Rīg-veda VI. 2, 10.)

समृष् sam-rīsh, cl. 1. P. -arshati, &c. (see rt. 1. rīsh), Ved. to come together, unite with.

समे sam-e (-ā-i, see rt. 5. i), cl. 2. P. -aiti, &c., to come together, approach together, meet or assemble together, unite together, meet at or in (with acc. or loc.); to come together with (with inst.); to go to, enter, go through, march across (with acc.); to come into competition or rivalry with, cope with; to join or lead together (with acc.).

Sam-eta, as, ā, am, come together, met together, assembled, joined or united together, collected, associated, agreed, covenanted; encountered, come to close quarters, come into collision; conjoined, concomitant, connected or united with, furnished with, possessed of, having; come near, approached, approximated, near. — Sameta-māya, as, ā, am, furnished with or possessing illusions.

Sam-etya, ind. having come together, having assembled or met together, having held a meeting.

Sam-eyava, ān, -yushī, at, one who has come together.

समेघलेख sa-megha-lekha, as, ā, am, having streaks of cloud.

समेज sam-ej, cl. 1. P. -ejati, &c., to rise or move upwards.

समेडी sameḍī, f., N. of one of the Mātris attending on Skanda; [cf. bheḍī.]

समेद् सम-eddhṛi. See under sam-indh.

समेध sam-edh, cl. 1. A. -edhate, -edhitum, to prosper greatly, thrive, increase: Caus. -adhayati, -yitum, to cause to prosper or succeed, cause to increase or swell; to strengthen, make happy or fortunate.

Sam-edhita, as, ā, am, greatly increased or augmented, made to prosper or thrive, strengthened, strong; united.

समेध sa-medha, as, ā, am, along with the sacrifice, having the essence of sacrifice.

समोकस् sam-okas, ās, ās, as, living or dwelling together, furnished or surrounded with (with inst., Sāy. = samāna-nivāsa or sam-aveta, Rīg-veda I. 64, 10.)

समोदक samodaka. See under sama.

समोपे sam-ope (sam-ā-upa-i). See rt. 5. i. Sam-opeta, as, ā, am, fully furnished or endowed with, possessed of.

समोह samoha [cf. sam-moha under sam-mah], enumerated among the saṅgrāma-nāmāni in Naigh. II. 17.

समोलिरत्न sa-mauli-ratna, as, ā, am, with a crown-jewel, having a crest-jewel.

सम्प sampa, as, m. (probably fr. sam-pat), descending, falling, alighting; (ā), f. lightning; [cf. sampā.]

सम्पच् sam-pac, Caus. -pāçayati, -yitum, to cook or mature together; to ripen thoroughly, bake or cook thoroughly, burn.

Sam-pakea, as, ā, am, thoroughly matured or ripened.

Sam-pāka, as, m. cooking or ripening thoroughly, maturing; the tree Cassia Fistula [cf. sam-pāka]; (as, ā, am), reasoning well, a reasoner, logician; subtle, cunning, impudent; lustful, lewd; small, little, low.

सम्पद् sam-paḥ, cl. 1. P. -paḥati, &c., to read through, peruse.

Sam-pāḥya, as, ā, am, to be caused to be read, (a-sampāḥya, one with whom no one is allowed to read.)

सम्पत् sam-pat, cl. 1. P. -patati, -patitum, to fly together, run or rush together, meet or come together, flow together; to meet at (with acc.); to unite with (with inst.); to fall together, meet together in hostile encounter; to fly to, hasten towards, flock to, go to, attain; to rush towards, assail, attack; to fall in with; to fly down, fall down, alight on; to go or roam about; to come to pass, happen: Caus. -pāyati, -yitum, to cause to fly or fall, cause to fly down, throw down, hurl down, cast, throw.

Sam-patat, an, anti, at, flying together, hastening together; falling or flying down, alighting, arriving; going backwards and forwards.

Sam-patita, as, ā, am, flying or falling together, coming to pass, happening, fallen or met together; come to pass.

Sam-pāta, as, m. falling together, concurrence, falling against each other, meeting together, encountering; butting together; general fall; falling down, descending, coming down, alighting (as a bird); a peculiar mode of flight (of birds); the flight of an arrow; that which falls or settles to the bottom, the residue (of an offering); anything thrown in or added as an ingredient; going, moving, removing; N. of the son of Garuda; (au), m. du.,

N. of two Vedic hymns. — Sampāta-eat, ān, atī, at, containing ingredients.

Sam-pāti, is, m., N. of a fabulous bird (the eldest son of Garuda and elder brother of Jaṭāyān); a proper N., (also written sam-yāti.)

Sampātika, as, m. a fabulous bird.

Sam-pātin, ī, inī, ī, falling together.

सम्पत्नी sam-patnī, f. (a woman) together with her husband, (see patnī.)

सम्पद् I. sam-pad, cl. 4. A. -padyate, -patum, to fall or happen well, turn out well, succeed, be prosperous, be accomplished; be completed or fulfilled, to become full or complete (as a number), amount to; to become (e.g. svedoddbhedo vibhūshā sampede, the bursting out of drops of perspiration became an ornament, Kirāt. VII. 5), be produced, be born, be brought forth, arise; to fall together, come together, meet with, unite with (with inst.); to fall into any one's possession; to attain to, obtain, acquire; to enter into, be absorbed in (with loc. or acc.); Caus. -pādayati, -yitum, to cause to succeed, cause to arise, cause to become, bring about, produce, effect, accomplish, complete, cause to procure, obtain, make ready, prepare; to turn or transform into; to furnish or provide with, endow with; to cause to be occupied with; to attain, obtain; to be agreed, agree upon (Ved.).

Sam-patti, is, f. prosperity, success, increase of wealth, &c., completion, fulfilment, perfection, excellence; a suitable state or condition; a sort of medicinal root.

2. sam-pad, t, f. success, prosperity, good fortune; luck, fate; increase of wealth or happiness, advancement of any kind, advantage, benefit, blessing; a treasure; a necklace of pearls; decoration, adornment; accomplishment, perfection, completion; excellence; correctness, right method; excess, abundance. — Sampad-vasu, us, m., N. of one of the seven principal rays of the sun (supposed to supply heat to the planet Mars). — Sampad-vinimaya, as, m. an interchange of benefit or advantage.

Sam-padyamāna, as, ā, am, being accomplished, being brought about.

Sampadvāra, as, m. a king, prince.

Sam-panna, as, ā, am, fallen or turned out well, successful, prosperous, fortunate, thriving, happy; accomplished, effected, completed, finished, complete, perfect; perfectly acquainted or conversant with; full grown, mature; right, correct; procured, acquired, obtained; possessed of, endowed with; of perfect or correct flavour; (as), m. epithet of Śiva; (am), n. a delicacy. — Sampanna-tama, as, ā, am, most complete or perfect. — Sampanna-rūpa, as, ā, am, complete, perfect; dainty, delicate.

Sampannaka, as, ā, am, = sam-panna above.

Sam-pāda, as, m. accomplishment, completion, acquisition, obtaining.

Sam-pādaka, as, ikā, am, bringing about, effecting, effective of, accomplishing, fulfilling.

Sam-pādana, as, ī, am, effective of, procuring, gaining; (am), n. the act of bringing about, accomplishing, effecting, making; preparing, clearing (ground &c.); gaining, acquiring, reaching, attaining.

Sam-pādaniya, as, ā, am, to be brought about or effected.

Sam-pādayat, an, anti, at, accomplishing, effecting, perfecting.

Sam-pādayitri, tū, trī, trī, one who accomplishes or effects.

Sam-pādita, as, ā, am, brought about, accomplished, effected; attained, obtained, gained, gotten.

Sam-pādya, ind. having procured, effected, or obtained.

सम्पद् sam-pada, am, n. standing with the feet together or even (= samam pada-yugam).

सम्परिकृत sam-pari-kṛit, cl. 10. P. -kirtayati, -yitum, to enumerate fully, particularise.